

Photograph: Neil Burger

The 25 best tacos in Chicago

From classic carne asada to funky, veggie-filled creations, these are the best tacos in Chicago

By Morgan Olsen, Elizabeth Atkinson, Nick Kindelsperger and Zach Long
 Wednesday April 28 2021

Tacos never go out of style in Chicago—we like 'em swaddled in warm, handmade tortillas and packed with proteins and toppings. And don't forget the salsa! We searched high and low for the best tacos in Chicago and found amazing options originating from tiny taquerias, fancy Mexican restaurants and even a fake food truck. The list covers all of your taco cravings, including classic carne asada, crispy fish, trendy birria and vegetarian-friendly options. Some are even served at restaurants that offer outdoor dining, allowing you to enjoy a handheld meal under the sun. Check out the 25 best tacos in Chicago—and get to work.

18. Camarón tacos at Azul Mariscos

Restaurants Seafood River West/West Town

Can't swing the $400 seafood platter stacked with Alaskan king crab legs and lobster at this lakefront restaurant near Goose Island? A plate of camarón tacos is a bit more reasonably priced—and you'll have enough to grab a pitcher of margaritas or sangria while you're at it. Served on flour tortillas with red cabbage, avocado and chipotle aioli, these simple tacos allow you to enjoy the flavors of the grilled shrimp while you soak in the scenery.

Photograph: Courtesy Azul Mariscos